THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

Closing Exercises at the Central School Yesterday.

In last night's TIMES the list of promotions, prize list and honor rolls of the girls' department of the Central School, of which Miss Armstrong is principal, were published. General satisfaction was expressed at the progress made in this department by the pupils and teachers under the management of this talented lady. In teaching circles it is conceded that the strides made during the past year have been rapid, the girls excelling the progress made by the boys in almost every department. In the afternoon the closing exercises were witnessed by a large number of spectators, amongst whom were the Hon. John Robson, Minister of Education, Supt. Pope, and Trustees Higgins, Hayward, Heisterman, Milne, McMicking, and Walker, and a large representation of ladies and many gentlemen, all of whom took a lively interest in the proceedings. The young lady pupils looked charmingly handsome and happy. The Hon. John Robson presented the Governor-General's prize in a few well-chosen remarks. Mr. Alex. Wilson presented the prizes to Miss Cameron's pupils, Dr. Milne presented the rolls of honor, Mr. Higgins presented Miss Wylde with a prize for her essay on Queen Victoria. A presentation was made to Miss Armstrong by a couple of young ladies in the shape of a handsome boquet, accompanied with an address. Short speeches were delivered by Hon. Mr. Robson, Messrs. Higgins and Heisterman and Dr. Milne. The singing of the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

A CHINESE MURDER.

A Miner on McDame Creek Murders a Brother Celestial.

From Messrs. Callbreath, Grant & Cook, of Cassiar, we learn the particulars of an atrocious crime committed on McDame Creek, Cassiar, in January last. Mr. Ed. Metcalf, the firm's store-keeper on McDame Creek, under date of April 17th, sends the following account of the tragedy:

I am sorry to inform you of a most serious affair which happened here on the evening of the 31st January. Ah Hing and Foo Toon (two Chinese miners) were in the habit of going up to China Bar to gamble during the China new year, and on the above evening Ah Hing came home alone. Yip Sing and John Lamountain were the last that saw Ah Hing alive at the bar below. He is supposed to have had a quarrel with Ah Man and that Ah Man killed him and put the body in his cabin and then set fire to it. Ah Man came up here on the same evening in a very excited state, and wanted men to go down, which I did. He said Ah Hing was crazy and was going down to the lower bar to shoot a Chinaman, and had set fire to his house. When I got to the house everything was burned up, excepting the walls. I asked Ah Man where Ah Hing was. He said he did not know; he had taken his gun and run away. I then started for the lower bar to look after him, but met two Chinamen who said he was not there. Returning we made a search around all the buildings but could not find him. Next morning I went back again, and found Ah Hing's bones behind the stove. I also traced blood from Ah Man's cabin for fifty or sixty feet along the trail to a bend in the trail where he went off into the snow and tramped it down. Ah Man had a bad cut on his left hand. Every person here is fully convinced that Ah Hing was foully murdered. The thermometer, on the night in question, was 50° to 60° below zero.

Fairy Fingers.

The patronage accorded to Mlle. Rhea, one of the finest actresses that has ever visited Victoria, does not indicate as high artistic taste or the part of our citizens as we had been led to believe they possessed. She is a charming actress—natural and graceful in every movement, and possessing dramatic abilities of the first order. Fairy Fingers is a light French society drama, of a somewhat obscure plot, but containing many scenes. Rhea's support was capital, all the members of the company performing their part in an exceptionally clever manner, Arthur Forrest especially distinguishing himself in the character of Richard de Kerbcian. The costumes were magnificent. The "Widow" will show Mlle. Rhea in a new type of character, that of a comedienne. The play is full of laughable situations, bright repartee, and the interest never flags. Mlle. Rhea will wear her famous Queen of Holland dress which has been the admiration of the ladies in every city where it has been worn.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the living membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been discovered whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

CRIMINAL LIBEL.

An influential delegation from the Ontario Press Association, which represents all the newspapers of that province, interviewed the Minister of Justice and explained the defects of the present law and the changed condition of journalism since the libel laws were passed. Hon. Mr. THOMPSON, who was a journalist for some years, said he thoroughly understood the danger that surrounded respectable journals, and explained the difficulties of the case in respect of the amendments required. He promised, however, to introduce a bill next session dealing with the case. In the meantime, having framed a bill, he will communicate with the Press Association and consider any suggestions that may be made.

It must be apparent to the people of this province that the law of libel is a relic of the olden time that ought to be modified in harmony with the present, and made to conform to the liberality and intelligence of these later days. As matters now stand, men whose object it is to gag the press are in the habit of entering actions for libel, civil or criminal, for what is not unfrequently only fancied injuries. Cases in point will suggest themselves to our readers where newspapers, in the performance of a duty they owed to the public, have found it necessary to criticise with more or less severity the conduct of public men, in the capacity as servants of the people, thereby incurring the enmity and persecution of the parties whose public acts were condemned. If a newspaper is to be anything more than a mere recorder of events if it is to lead or direct public thought, correct abuses, or denounce incapacity or corruption in high places—it must not be subjected to the vindictiveness and malevolence of the men whose wrong-doing it has exposed. In saying this much, we do not wish to be understood as advocating the curtailment of the right of any man to vindicate his character and punish his defamer, where it is apparent that he has been libelled. Without such a safeguard the liberty of the press would become in many instances a license to villify and traduce private and public character. But we hold that libel suits, under the law as it now stands, are instituted by governments and by public men without sufficient cause, and solely for the purpose of hampering the press and putting a stop for the time being to criticisms and exposures which, knowing themselves intimately and having regard to their tenure of office they are afraid to have continued.

THE CHINA STEAMERS.

The dispatch from Mr. D. E. Brown, passenger agent of the C. P. R. at Vancouver, published in last evening's TIMES, is proof of the desire of the railway company to meet the wishes of the business men of Victoria. The Abyssinia, that gentleman informs us, will call at Victoria on her outgoing voyage, and will anchor as near the outer wharf as the depth of water will permit. On the authority of WELCH, RITHET & Co., owners of the dock, we can state that the water at low tide is twenty eight feet, which is sufficient to float a vessel of much larger draught than the Abyssinia. Upon investigation we feel convinced that this fact will be apparent to the managers of the line, when the vessels will be brought to the wharf. But the matter of present harbor accommodation should not be permitted to stand in the way of the mutual benefits which would accrue, as by an extension of the present wharf any depth of water can be obtained that may be desired. However, the calling of the steamer is an earnest of the intentions of the company. It now remains for our exporters and importers to patronize the line to such an extent that it will be manifestly in the interest of the steamship company to make Victoria a regular port of call. There is precious little sentiment in running ocean steamships, and if it will not pay to come to Victoria we need not shut our eyes to the possibility of being side-tracked.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottle 10c. Try it.

CITY COUNCIL.

James Bay Bridge—The E. & N. Extension Project, &c.

The regular weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held last evening. Present: His Worship the Mayor and Couns. Grant, Higgins, Barnard, Braden, Harris, Vigelius, Coughlan, Styles and Pearse.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read:

From J. P. Burgess, asking for street lines. Request granted.

From the Celebration Committee, Tacoma, inviting the Mayor and Council to attend at that place on the 4th July.

Coun. Harris moved that the invitation be accepted. Carried.

From E. A. Astrico, calling attention to the bad state of sidewalk on Store street. Referred to Street Committee with power to act.

From Geo. Moore, asking what action had been taken by the Water Committee regarding his application for water. Referred to Water Committee.

From ten ratepayers, asking that Young street be graded and sidewalks laid from Michigan to Toronto streets. Referred to Street Committee to report.

From Chas. Bush, engineer fire department, asking for half pay during his recent illness. The request was granted.

From Saml. Gray, asking for a hydrant to be placed on the corner of Government and Chatham streets, and threatening to hold the Council responsible for loss in case of fire.

Coun. Coughlan said a resolution had been passed by the Council three months ago to have a hydrant placed on the spot asked for. Referred to Water Committee with power to grant the request.

From Tai Yeok & Co., asking for use of street. Referred to Street Committee.

From 117 ratepayers, asking that the Council confer with the E. & N. Railway Co. with a view to ascertain upon what terms the E. & N. Railway could be extended into the city. Laid on the table.

TENDERS.

Tenders for painting James Bay bridge were received as follows: Joseph Sears, $1400; Eli Harrison, $600; Wm. Irving, $1675; O. Demers, $2250.

Coun. Vigelius moved, seconded by Coun. Coughlan, that the contract be awarded to Eli Harrison.

Coun. Barnard objected to awarding the contract until it was known where the funds were to come from.

Coun. Grant said there was a balance of $4000, which added to the amount provided for contingencies, amounted to $8000. There was also $1000 which had been placed aside for the verification of sewage plans.

The motion was carried.

RESOLUTIONS.

Coun. Higgins moved, seconded by Coun. Styles, that whereas the establishment of the southern terminus of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway at Victoria west impairs the usefulness and value of that important enterprise, especially as regards the commerce of this city, while it increases the expense of travel and freight between the city and the east coast of the island, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Mayor and Council wait on Mr. Dunsmuir in a body and ascertain upon what terms the line will be extended to the city.

Coun. Grant thought it would not be wise for the Council as a whole to wait upon Mr. Dunsmuir and ask for "terms." He suggested that a committee be appointed to ascertain Mr. Dunsmuir's views regarding the extension into the city.

Coun. Barnard was of the same opinion as Coun. Grant.

Coun. Pearse said Mr. Dunsmuir had always intended bringing the railway into the city but the obstacle was the Indian reserve. He asked Coun. Higgins to modify his resolution.

Coun. Higgins modified the resolution to read "that the mayor and council wait on Mr. Dunsmuir and ask him if he intends to extend the line into the city." The motion as modified was carried.

REPORTS.

The Water Committee reported that they could not recommend a permanent supply of water to J. H. McLachlan at 50 cents per month; that Creid & Bantly's application be granted as soon as pipes arrive. Adopted.

The Street Committee reported recommending that a sidewalk be laid on the north side of John street, provided property owners repair damage done to fences, etc., from grading, and that a sidewalk be laid on Superior street, from Birdcage Walk to Beacon Hill. Adopted.

Coun. Pearse read a report from Mr. Bell, C. E., regarding the water works reservoirs, and moved that it be referred to the Water Committee to report and that a copy of the report be furnished to each Councillor. Carried.

Coun. Grant said it was usual for the Council to contribute towards the celebration of the Queen's birthday, and suggested that a grant should be made to the Jubilee celebration.

Couns. Higgins and Braden were in favor of a grant being made.

Coun. Pearse opposed a grant on the ground that the Council had now power to make it.

Coun. Grant moved a suspension of the rules of order. Carried.

Coun. Grant moved that $250 be granted.

Coun. Braden moved in amendment that the amount be $500.

The amendment was carried and the Council adjourned at 9.45.

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—In reading Mr. Farwell's report as to the Shuswap & Okanagan Railroad, I see that the road will be a very expensive one to build, and that its prospects for business are small. I know considerable about railway engineer's estimates, and I am convinced that that small road of 51 miles will cost more than a million and a half, if not quite two millions before completion.

The road will not earn any interest on this large outlay, and I protest against any public money being sunk in one of the most absurd railway enterprises ever seen. Why a broad-gauge should be used, when a cheap narrow-gauge would answer every purpose, is what I don't understand. The road is purely a colonization road, running through sparsely settled, mountainous country. It can never have sufficient traffic to pay any interest on the money to be sunk in it as a broad-gauge, while as a cheaply built, cheaply run narrow-gauge, it may in a few years earn interest as well as operating expenses. A 30-inch guage for all such roads implies 50 per cent. saved in cost of construction over the broad-guage, including the equipment. So why then throw a million away when the narrow-guage will answer every practical purpose as well as the expensive broad-guage?

That very million saved would build another narrow-guage colonization road between Alberni and Comox, opening up to settlement two of the finest districts on the Island, one of which is almost inaccessible now. Yet I am told that in amount of acres of good farming land, in timber and in probable mineral resources, there is no district on the mainland can compare with the country through which the Alberni and Comox road of only 50 miles in length, would run.

Instead of pitching money away in building expensive broad guage railways in attempts to colonize a few fertile vales in our mountainous country, I advocate the speedy construction of cheaply built narrow-guage roads wherever enough fertile land exists to induce traffic. Besides helping quartz mining enterprises, the Provincial Legislature should bonus all narrow guage colonization roads with at least $2000 per mile built and in operation, free right of way through public lands, and a grant of land of 6000 acres per mile, to be chosen any where in the province, on payment of $2 per acre for cost of survey, or without such charges if the land is taken unsurveyed. There would be sound sense in this policy.

A part from railways, I see a grand opening for business in the operation of a sugar refinery, here at Victoria. The most successful enterprise of the kind in the east, the Canada, the St. Lawrence, and the New Brunswick sugar refineries, did not start with more than $200,000 capital. Surely that much can be raised here. I propose that Messrs. Johnston, Ward, Rithet, Todd, Turner and Dunsmuir form a Provincial Board of Directors, and appoint a secretary to canvass for subscriptions. Make the shares $50 each, and I am positive in one month from the opening of the book, the $200,000 will be subscribed. The amount of coal to be used would secure a handsome subscription from the Dunsmuir's and the prospect of the wage-money to be spent by the hundreds of employees would cause every one having an interest in Victoria who can spare the money to take stock. We are eating sugar grown in the Phillipines, freighted round the world to Montreal, refined there, and shipped over the C. P. R. to Victoria, when there is no earthly reason why that same raw sugar be not shipped across the North Pacific to Victoria and refined here, for sale at every point between here and Port Arthur.

Two hundred thousand dollars will start the refinery, employing hundreds of people, directly and indirectly. If the Victoria Rice mills succeed, why should not a precisely similar enterprise, the Victoria Sugar Refinery? PROGRESS.

HOPE NEWS.

Organization of a Women's Christian Temperance Union.

While many places on or near the Fraser river at this season of year are over apprehensive, lest their property, and in some cases their homes, be submerged beneath the rising flood,

Hope stands high and dry,
Above the tide
With quiet safety
On its side.

One of the events of the week, around which clusters much interest and joyous expectation, is the arrival of the handsome river boat, "The William Irving," whose clarion toned and almost electrifying whistle announces her welcome approach. Many stand on the bank to catch the first glimpse of fresh arrivals, or hail the appearance of an unlooked for friend and guest.

The business men are all on the alert to secure and deposit their most precious freight, which to them is as gold in value. But we regret to have to say, as concerning most towns in B. C., the intoxicating beverage is attainable, but as public sentiment becomes educated up to the anticipated standard of total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the nation, this dark cloud will pass away from Hope's moral horizon and the clear blue sky appear. To help forward this glad day the ladies assembled on Thursday, the 9th, to meet Miss Bowes, Ontario's W. C. T. U. organizer and lecturer, and to hear from her an explanation of the work and its adaptability to small towns, as well as large, after which, by an unanimous vote, a Woman's Christian Temperance Union was organized. Officers, namely: President, Mrs. Wardle; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Flood and Mrs Bears; Recording Secretary, Miss McDougall; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Fraser; Treasurer, Mrs Laudvoight. It was at once decided that they organize a Loyal Legion. Consequently the ladies met the juvenile hopefuls on Saturday, the 11th, and notwithstanding the absentees through sickness, eighteen received the triple pledge card and put on the metal badge. A catechism temperance lesson book was given to each family. After singing one or two new pieces and receiving some leaflets the promising and happy Legion was dismissed to meet again on the following Friday. COM.

DOERING AND WHITE.

THE STORY OF A MINE.

By BRET HARTE.

[Copyrighted, 1888, by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and published by arrangement with them.]

CHAPTER II.

WHO FOUND IT.

WILES.

CONCHO was so impatient to reach the camp and deliver his good news to his companions that more than once the stranger was obliged to command him to slacken his pace. "Is it not enough, you Infernal Greaser, that you lame your own mule, but you must try your hand on mine? Or am I to put Jinny down among the expenses?" he added with a grin and a slight lifting of his baleful eyelid.

When they had ridden a mile along the ridge they began to descend again toward the valley. Vegetation now sparingly bordered the trail, clumps of chemisal, an occasional manzanita bush and one or two dwarfed "buckeyes" rooted their way between the interstices of the black-gray rock. Now and then, in crossing some dry gully, worn by the overflow of winter torrents from above, the grayish rock gloom was relieved by dull red and brown masses of color, and almost every overhanging rock bore the mark of a miner's pick. Presently, as they rounded the curving flank of the mountain, from a rocky bench below them, a thin ghost-like stream of smoke seemed to be steadily drawn by invisible hands into the invisible ether. "It is the camp," said Concho, gleefully; "I will myself forward to prepare them for the stranger," and before his companion could detain him he had disappeared at a sharp canter around the curve o the trail.

Left to himself, the stranger took a more leisurely pace, which left him ample time for reflection. Scamp as he was there was something in the simple credulity of poor Concho that made him uneasy. Not that his moral consciousness was touched, but he feared that Concho's companions might, knowing Concho's simplicity, instantly suspect him of trading upon it. He rode on in a deep study. Was he reviewing his past life? A vagabond by birth and education, a swindler by profession, an outcast by reputation, without absolutely turning his back upon respectability, he had trembled on the perilous edge of criminality ever since his boyhood. He did not scruple to cheat these Mexicans—they were a degraded race—and for a moment he felt almost an accredited agent of progress and civilization. We never really understand the meaning of enlightenment until we begin to use it aggressively.

A few paces further on four figures appeared in the now gathering darkness of the trail. The stranger quickly recognized the beaming smile of Concho, foremost of the party. A quick glance at the faces of the others satisfied him that while they lacked Concho's good humor, they certainly did not surpass him in intellect. Pedro was a stout vaquero. Manuel was a slim half-breed and ex-convert of the Mission of San Carmel, and Miguel a recent butcher of Monterey. Under the benign influences of Concho that suspicion with which the ignorant regard strangers died away, and the whole party escorted the stranger—who had given his name as Mr. Joseph Wiles—to their camp fire. So anxious were they to begin their experiments that even the instincts of hospitality were forgotten, and it was not until Mr. Wiles—now known as "Don Jose"—sharply reminded them that he wanted some "grub," that they came to their senses. When the frugal meal of tortillas, frijoles, salt pork, and chocolate was over, an oven was built of the dark red rock brought from the ledge before them, and an earthenware jar, glazed by some peculiar local process, tightly fitted over it, and packed with clay and soda. A fire was speedily built of pine boughs continually brought from a wooded ravine below, and in a few moments the furnace was in full blast. Mr. Wiles did not participate in these active preparations, except to give occasional directions between his teeth, which were contemplatively fixed over a clay pipe as he lay comfortably on his back on the ground. Whatever enjoyment the rascal may have had in their useless labors he did not show it, but it was observed that his left eye often followed the broad figure of the ex-vaquero, Pedro, and often dwelt on that worthy's bristling brows and half savage face. Meeting that baleful glance once, Pedro growled out an oath, but could not resist a hideous fascination that caused him again and again to seek it.

The scene was weird enough without Wiles' eye to add to its wild picturesqueness. The mountain towered above—a heavy Rembrandtish mass of black shadow—sharply cut here and there against a sky so inconceivably remote that the world-sick soul must have despaired of ever reaching so far or of climbing its steel-blue walls. The stars were large, keen and brilliant, but cold and steadfast. They did not dance nor twinkle in their adamantine setting. The furnace fire painted the faces of the men an Indian red, glanced on brightly colored blanket and serape, but was eventually caught and absorbed in the waiting shadows of the black mountain, scarcely twenty feet from the furnace door. The low, half-sung, half-whispered foreign speech of the group, the roaring of the furnace and the quick, sharp yelp of the coyote on the plain below were the only sounds that broke the awful silence of the hills.

It was almost dawn when it was announced that the ore had fused. And it was high time, for the pot was slowly sinking into the fast crumbling oven. Concho uttered a jubilant "God and Liberty," but Don Jose Wiles bade him be silent and bring stakes to support the pot. Then Don Jose bent over the seething mass. It was for a moment only. But in that moment this accomplished metallurgist, Mr. Joseph Wiles, had quietly dropped a silver half dollar into the pot!

Then he charged them to keep up the fires and went to sleep—all but one eye.

Dawn came with dull beacon fires on the near hill tops, and, far in the east, rose over the Sierran snow. Birds twittering in the alder fringes a mile below, and the creaking of wagon wheels—the wagon itself a mere cloud of dust in the distant road—were heard distinctly. Then the melting pot was solemnly broken by Don Jose, and the glowing incandescent mass turned into the road to cool.

And then the metallurgist clipped a small fragment from the mass and pounded it, and chipped another smaller piece and pounded that, and then subjected it to acid, and then treated it to a salt bath which became at once milky—and at last produced a white something—mirabile dictu!—two cents' worth of silver!

Concho shouted with joy; the rest gazed at each other doubtingly and distrustfully; contrasion in poverty, they began to diverge and suspect each other in prosperity. Wiles' left eye glanced ironically from the one to the other.

"Here is the $100, Don Jose," said Pedro, handing the gold to Wiles with a decidedly brusque intimation that the services and presence of a stranger were no longer required.

Wiles took the money with a gracious smile and a wink that sent Pedro's heart into his boots, and was turning away when a cry from Manuel stopped him:

"The pot—the pot—it has leaked! look! behold! see!"

He had been cleaning away the crumbled fragments of the furnace to get ready for breakfast, and had disclosed a shining pool of quicksilver!

Wiles started, cast a rapid glance around the group, saw in a flash that the metal was unknown to them, and then said, quietly:

"It is not silver."

"Pardon, senor, it is, and still molten."

Wiles stooped and ran his fingers through the shining metal.

"Mother of God—what is it, then!—magic!"

"No, only base metal." But here, Concho, emboldened by Wiles' experiment, attempted to seize a handful of the glistening mass that instantly broke through his fingers in a thousand tiny spherules, and even sent a few globules up his shirt sleeves, until he danced around in mingled fear and childish pleasure.

"And it is not worth the taking?" queried Pedro of Wiles.

Wiles' right eye and bland face were turned toward the speaker, but his malevolent left was glancing at the dull, red-brown rock on the hillside.

"No!" and turning abruptly away he proceeded to saddle his mule.

Manuel, Miguel and Pedro, left to themselves, began talking earnestly together, while Concho, now mindful of his crippled mule, made his way back to the trail where he had left her. But she was no longer there. Constant to her master through beatings and bullyings, she could not stand incivility and inattention. There are certain qualities of the sex that belong to all animated nature.

Inconsolable, footsore and remorseful, Concho returned to the camp and furnace, three miles across the rocky ridge. But what was his astonishment on arriving to find the place deserted of man, mule and camp equipage. Concho called aloud. Only the echoing rocks grimly answered him. Was it a trick? Concho tried to laugh. Ah—yes—a good one—a joke—no—no—they had deserted him! And then poor Concho bowed his head to the ground, and falling on his face, cried as if his honest heart would break.

The tempest passed in a moment; it was not Concho's nature to suffer long nor to brood over an injury. As he raised his head again his eye caught the shimmer of the quicksilver—that pool of merry antic metal that had so delighted him an hour before. In a few moments Concho was again disporting with it; chasing it here and there, rolling it in his palms and laughing with boyllke glee at its elusive freaks and fancies. "Ah, sprightly one—skipjack—there thou goest—come here. This way—now I have thee, little one—come, muchacha—come and kiss me," until he had quite forgotten the defection of his companions. And even when he shouldered his sorry pack, he was fain to carry his playmate away with him in his empty leathern flask.

And yet I fancy the sun looked kindly on him as he strode cheerily down the black mountain side, and his step was none the less free nor light that he carried with him neither the brilliant prospects nor the crime of his late comrades.

A SADLY DUPED EMPEROR.

A Curious Story Concerning Napoleon III and a Contract.

I was lately told by a southern gentleman a very curious story, going to prove how thoroughly duped and deceived was Napoleon III at the close of his reign, and how gigantic were the frauds and peculations then being carried on by the imperial officials. This gentleman's father had been on intimate terms with Louis Napoleon when he resided in the United States, and the future emperor had often been his guest on his plantation in Louisiana. My friend was traveling in Europe in the year 1860, and on arriving in Paris, and wishing to be presented to the emperor, whom he well remembered as having, when a boy, seen at his father's house, he wrote to one of the imperial chamberlains, setting forth his desire, and also the facts of the case. The emperor, whose kindly feelings for the friends of his adversity was well known, at once granted him a private interview.

The French sovereign and the American citizen conversed long and pleasantly, and when the latter arose to take his leave Napoleon asked him as to his next point of destination. "I am on my way to England, sire," was the reply. "Then," said the emperor, "I wish you would go to the establishment of Messrs. M——, the great gunmakers, and ask them how the order sent them from our war office for 250,000 guns is progressing. They ought to be nearly completed by this time." The American undertook the commission, and called as requested at the office of the firm. The clerk to whom he first addressed his question simply laughed in his face. "You must be out of your senses," he said. "Such an order has never been given and the guns do not exist." My countryman became indignant, and insisted upon seeing one of the members of the firm. Mr. M——, the senior partner, was summoned, but could only confirm the statement of the clerk. "I assure you, sir," he said, courteously, "that we have never received an order of any kind from the French government for so much as a single gun." Yet these guns had been paid for, though unordered and non-existent. A striking proof was this incident of the vast peculations that took place during the later years of the empire. My friend forwarded a statement of the facts to Napoleon III, but doubtless all precautions had been taken to prevent any such information from reaching the deluded sovereign, whose bright days were then fast drawing to their close.—Paris Cor. Boston Girl on a Toboggan.

The Boston girl is herself on a toboggan, as everywhere else. In the first place she modifies and subdues the costume to suit her own personality. The wild eccentricities of the St. Paul or the Montreal maiden are tamed by her to a charm as delusive and delightful as herself.

The Boston girl does not take up tobogganing because it is a craze, nor because of its possibilities of picturesqueness and effectiveness, as the New York girl does. She accepts it as one of the developments of the progress of this last quarter of the century, and goes into it with concentration and the certain charming seriousness which is a part of her way of looking at everything. She is conscious first and last and always that all pleasures are elusive and fleeting, but she sees the philosophical beauty of change, and accepts tobogganing as she will presently accept whatever other good the gods send her in the way of fun.

The Boston girl makes her own suit and gets up a gay little costume at a cost of $8 or $10, which would cost at least half as much again in the stores. Then she goes forth to Cambridge or Corey Hill or some other enchanting suburban slide and enjoys the moonlight and the fun, and if she catches cold from overexercise or from getting tipped over into the snow she goes home and mindcures the cold away and comes forth the next day brighter and more self-confident than ever, with a new flush of pink setselin for her dalliance.

The Jubilee ball given at South Saanich last night, was a splendid affair. The attendance did not come up to expectations, nevertheless, for a good time, it was ample. The hall was tastefully decorated with evergreens and flags, and the supper was sumptuous. The Queen City Band furnished excellent dance music and the light fantastic was tripped till the early hour of four this morning. Everybody voted the affair a genuine success. Among those present were: Pres. S. Sandqver; Vice Pres. W. Thompson; Sec. G. A. McTavish; Treasurer J. Mollmoyle, all of the Saanich Agricultural Society, and other gentlemen. Reception Meeting.

The members of the Wesleyan body in this city and a number of others not of that denomination, assembled in the school room of the Wesleyan Methodist church, Pandora street, last night, as per announcement in THE TIMES, to extend a welcome to their new pastor of that church in this city. The school room was well filled, the young people largely predominating. Warm words of welcome were addressed to Mr. Starr by the Rev. Mr. Ladner, Messrs. Spencer, McKay, Jessop, and Sheriff McMillan. Mr. Starr delivered an impromptu felicitous reply. He defined his opinions and beliefs on many of the religious questions of the day. From his remarks it is evident the rev. gentlemen belongs to the aggressive school of clergymen. He trusted to divine assistance for the carrying out of his work successfully. In doing this he hoped the congregation would assist his efforts, for without their aid his labors to a certain extent would be futile. He thanked those present on his own behalf as well as that of Mrs. Starr for their kind reception. Refreshments were then partaken of, after which a considerable time was spent in special conversation. Mr. Starr before pronounsing the benediction announced meetings to be held to-morrow night. The doxology was then sung, the benediction pronounced, and the meeting dispersed. It was a pleasant affair throughout. Mr. Starr created a favorable impression on his first public appearance in Victoria.

Miss Collin's Pupils.

The recital entertainment given on Wednesday night by Miss Collin's pupils, assisted by Mrs. Dennis Harris, Miss Mouat, Miss Broderick and Miss Collin herself, was a successful event, the hall of the Y. M. C. A. being well filled by the parents, guardians and friends of the pupils, all of whom evinced a keen interest in the proceedings. The pupils performed their respective parts in an exceedingly clever manner, evincing great care and thorough training on the part of Miss Collin in bringing them to such a state of proficiency, and for which she richly deserved the encomiums showered upon her by those present. The following young Misses took a prominent part in the evening's proceedings: Minnie McDonald, Florie MacSwain, Florence Hayward, Agnes Heisterman, Sylvia Heisterman, May Giles, Bertha Frank, Edith Dalby, Edith Booth, Florence Moody, Estelle Hibben, Miss Mouat, Tressie Wylde, and Masters A Gonnsza, Harry Carter and Arthur Caldwell. Miss Collin is to be congratulated on the success of her efforts. It is to be hoped parents will take advantage of the opportunity offered by Miss Collin for the training of their children in her special line.

Whatcom's Offer.

At a public meeting held at Whatcom, to discuss railroad and other enterprises, the citizens of Whatcom, New Whatcom, Bellingham and Fairhavon jointly, including Henry Roeder, Mrs. Utter, the Pettibones, Edward Eldridge, Daniel Harris and other township proprietors, pledged 25 per cent. in cash of their appraised valuation as a bonus to any railroad that would build from Bellingham Bay to the Big Bend country, and 50 per cent. to the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba to make their terminus on Bellingham Bay. The first proposition amounts to about $150,000, and the second to double that amount.

The application of Tait & Davs for a license at the Victoria Driving Park, notwithstanding the protest of Coun. Pearse and Mr. Alex. McLean, J. P., and Supt. Boycraft, was unanimously granted.

Annual Report of the Diocesan Treasurer, Mr. H. E. Croasdaile.

Following is the annual report of Mr. H. E. Croasdaile, Treasurer of the Diocese of British Columbia, presented yesterday to the Synod:

To the First Session of the Fourth Synod of the Diocese of Columbia:

As Diocesan treasurer, I beg to report that since the last Synod was held the mission fund, up to the end of last quarter, has been just able to meet the calls made upon it; though in the present quarter I fear I shall have to call upon the fund guaranteed by His Lordship. There has been one new source of revenue, viz., September Sunday collections, which brought in a total of $124.30. The receipts from collection cards have increased from $46.85 in December, 1885, to $92.10 in December, 1886. I have again to acknowledge the great assistance this fund has received from the Bishop's Close Ladies' working party; without this annual help it would be impossible to meet the schedule of payments to the clergy authorized by the Synod. The total received from this source during the last twelve months has been $439.50, as against $301 the previous year. I am sorry, however, to have to report a falling off of some private contributions and in the amount of church collections.

The Diocesan Clergy Widows and Orpans' Fund has been augmented by last Christmas day's collections, and now amounts to $1,234.56. Of this sum $1000 is invested on good security at 7 per cent. interest, and the remainder I have made up to $250 which is invested at 8 per cent. It will be many years before this fund at its present rate of increase will yield sufficient to support our clergyman's widow or orphans.

Of the Synod fund I have some $16 in hand which, with the assessments for this Synod, ought to be sufficient for printing the report of its proceedings.

Speaking as the person whose duty it is to endeavor to collect the means for grants to the District Clergy, the most important event of the year that I have to note is the inauguration of the Jubilee Sustentation Fund for the Diocese. Without some endowment, yielding a regular and permanent revenue, the Church of England cannot extend her work in the Diocese so as to occupy her proper position. Indeed without it it will be impossible to maintain the present staff of clergy.

The success of the Sustentation Fund must depend on its receiving support from the wealthy congregations of Victoria. Some of the members of these now subscribe liberally and regularly to the mission fund, and I have no doubt will give their hearty aid to forming the Jubilee Fund; but unfortunately the great majority of members do not subscribe, and we should endeavor to arouse the interest of this majority.

The members of the Synod are, I am sure, all desirous of seeing the church in a position to do her proper work here, and they must recognize the importance of the step that has been taken towards this end. I would earnestly beg of them to do what they can in their respective parishes towards awaking a real and united effort to provide the sum necessary to form, at least, the nucleus of a sustentation fund. HENRY E. CROASDAILE,
Diocesan Treasurer.

Granite Creek.

Mr. John Dean returned from Nicola and Granite creek last night. He states that prospecting for quartz is very active in the former place where numerous ledges are being developed. At Granite creek and other camps in that locality, there are no new finds to report. General bench claims on Granite creek are paying well, but generally speaking the creek claims are not panning out as well as at one time expected. The high water has seriously retarded work.

The second lot of this beautiful waltz has just been received and is for sale at C. A. Lombard & Co.'s, next door to Hibben & Co.

Mr. R. Gallagher, Principal of the Canada Business College, Hamilton, Ontario, and wife, arrived in this city last evening, and are at the Driard. Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. *
